

ANNOUNCEMENT

From January 1, 2025, Pro Integris becomes the Official Distributor of OMICRON for Croatia.

We are excited to announce that, as of January 1, 2025, Pro Integris is the official distributor of most OMICRON products in Croatia.

OMICRON is a globally recognized company focused on developing innovative solutions for designing safe and reliable electrical power systems. Their customers are across various sectors, including energy companies, industrial firms, and equipment manufacturers involved in power generation and distribution. Customers worldwide trust their proven solutions for testing, diagnostics, and monitoring. OMICRON stands for innovation. Through continuous innovation, OMNICRON's products and solutions are functional, precise, user-friendly, and manufactured to the highest quality standards.

Innovation at OMICRON extends beyond technology - it defines how they collaborate with partners and customers to create a dynamic work environment.

Pro Integris shares the same values as OMICRON and is committed to building long-term relationships as a trusted partner. Together, we provide comprehensive technical support to drive growth and success for our customers.

For more information about the products and solutions we represent, please visit the official website <https://www.omicronenergy.com/en/product-overview/>.

We look forward to a successful collaboration and contributing to the development of the energy industry in Croatia!